FAMILY'S DREAM COMES TRUE IN JONAH MINISTRIES

Trout Lake dairy farmers renovate old school to create a youth camp

Everyone has a dream. Not everyone gathers the courage to make it happen. Jonah Ministries, which offers a variety of youth camps every summer from its base in the former Trout Lake School, is the fulfillment of one family's dream—a vision that continues to grow and flourish despite formidable odds. It all began with a family outing several years ago. Bernice organized a camp for her grandkids. "We had such a good time," recalls Bernice Duke. "We went hiking and camping. I often thought, 'I wish I could give this kind of good time to every kid.'"

The Dukes, Bernice, her son Jeff and daughter-in-law Beki, are a family of dairy farmers, an occupation they began in Trout Lake in 1965. (In fact, Bernice founded the Trout Lake Dairy Fair, which continues to be an annual community event still held on the Old School grounds.) All five of Bernice's kids attended class and graduated in the old Trout Lake School, a 1946-vintage building that became vacant when the community built a new school south of town. The building was enticing, although the Dukes hadn't any formal training to organize and operate youth camps on the scale they now began to envision.

But that didn't stop them. "When this old school was empty, I kept thinking this would make such a wonderful camp," Bernice said. She began talking with others about the idea and Jeff and Beki supported her, raising the money through a weighty decision; they sold their dairy farm, and their homes with it. The deal came through in February 1996. "God's hand was in the moving of it," says Bernice.

Of course, there are always second thoughts, certainly when you're selling the family homestead with the idea of renovating an empty schoolhouse. Their personal quarters became three of the old school classrooms. Suddenly, Jonah Ministries became their world, and the prospect was occasionally daunting; the school had sat vacant for three years. The roof leaked, water pipes had broken or plugged with rust; repairs were (and continue to be) seemingly unending. Could one family really take on the task?

Such doubts gave Jonah Ministries its name. Each time one of them became overwhelmed, thinking they'd taken on too much, he or she would earn the title "Jonah," for the Old Testament figure who didn't consider himself prepared to follow God's bidding. "Practically every day somebody was Jonah," Bernice said. "When God wants an ordinary person to do something extraordinary, you rise up to do it, and it will happen. Everybody is called upon at one time or another to do something for God, and we either do it or we run away." "You just do what you can do," says Bernice. And they can do a lot.

Community support came early, in the form of a school bus donated, including a brand new set of tires donated by the owner of a trucking company. Other companies donated plumbing fixtures and other materials. A restaurant chain donated chairs and tables. One anonymous, individual donation bought a sound system for the gymnasium. Contributions from visitors, both of money and labor, continue to be an important source of revenue. "It's always encouraging when someone wants to come alongside and help," Bernice said. "It just boosts your day."

During the summer of 1998, Jonah Ministries attracted 133 young campers. The summer of 1999 brought camper numbers up to 212, a pleasing increase to the Dukes. Attendees come from Mosier, Hood River, The Dalles, Dallesport, Goldendale—even Portland and as far a field as California. Each camp is kept small in number to maintain a quality ratio of leaders and students.

Camp leaders are all volunteers, and Jonah Ministries operates entirely on donations. (Camp fees only cover partial costs.) All told, there are some 30 part time volunteers who help restore the old school building, and take part as leaders. Many of them are local kids, including several now attending college.

Each camp lasts five days, from Monday through Friday, and the program changes every week. Jonah Ministries specializes in Theme Camps, with subjects including Basketball, Home Economics, Music/Drama, Sports, Horses, Father/Son, and Wilderness Camps near Mt. Adams. Genders are kept separate in most of the camps, and age groups vary from second grade through college, with different camps for different ages.

There's plenty of work for volunteers, including learning and leisure. Kids help mow lawns, haul garbage and move sprinklers. They clean the bathroom and help in the office. "Kids need to be needed," says Beki. "It fills that need when they work here, even though they don't get paid. Jonah is their place. They'll just pop in. They'll play basketball here, and we'll have a movie that night. They just want to be here." For younger kids, it's an opportunity to learn; for older youth leaders, it's a chance to work with kids and be involved in something important.

One of the goals is to expand Jonah's winter programs, perhaps by bringing more college-age youths there. (Indeed, Jonah is already making great strides in this regard; its weekend schedule for the school season is nearly full. They're working on dorm rooms for their guests. A climbing wall is also another goal. And the roof still leaks. It needs to be replaced completely, but the cost is still well beyond Jonah's meager budget.

Then, too, the Dukes and a new family, The Johnsons, wouldn't mind being able to finish the old elementary school building, which is to be housing for fulltime staff. Eventually, Beki says Jonah Ministries would like to host weekly programs of perhaps a maximum of 100 campers each—but that'll be plenty, thank you. "We don't have dreams of being a multi-million dollar retreat center," she said. And Bernice sees a greater bounty at hand, anyway. "We have the wilderness, the beauty here in the Gifford Pinchot National Forest," Bernice said. "We can take the kids hiking. We can take advantage of what we have." "We have the whole forest—we don't want to get away from that," adds Beki.

The Dukes agree Jonah Ministries' Wilderness Camps, which are limited to eight youths, offer some of their most memorable outings. "They're away from everything," says Bernice. "They are out there in God's garden – the greatness, the vastness. We get so hemmed in with cities and roads and modern inventions, that we don't really see life." It's a good place to develop visions of the future, and visions are important, Jeff observes.

"Walt Disney didn't live to see everything he planned," he said, but Disney's dreams nevertheless continue to shape the company he founded, even years after his death. "As soon as we quit dreaming and having visions of what we can do things will get stagnant," Jeff said.

Mt Adams

Trout Lake, Washington

Trout Lake is a small, peaceful town in Klickitat County with spectacular views and hiking trails that go forever. It is approximately 8 miles from the foot of Mt Adams on Highway 141, and 24 miles from the Columbia River. It is bordered on two sides by National forest, and the rest is State or privately owned.

Trout Lake has it's own post office, country store, beauty salon, full service gas station, and a craft and gift store. We have a women's quilting group, a fantastic book club, and other interesting groups and clubs. The school is modern with an excellent staff and offers education from pre-school to graduation. Even those who are not parents show up for sports events! This warm and friendly town is a perfect place to raise children in a natural, wholesome environment.

Trout Lake also has the largest organic herb farm in the United States, Certified organic by the Washington State Department of Agriculture. Trout Lake Farm grows more than 70 botanicals without the use of synthetic chemical pesticides, fertilizers or herbicides. The farm produces 3 million pounds of herbs each year, including echinacea, chamomile and St. John's Wort. They also have an organic dairy and you can buy their wonderful milk at the local store in town.

Trout Lake and the surrounding area offer endless opportunities for camping, hiking, fishing, mushroom picking, photography, bird watching, white water rafting, boating, kayaking, mountain biking, hunting, rock climbing, skiing, snowmobiling, and horseback riding. This area is building quite a reputation for endurance riding on the endless trails. If you prefer hiking to horseback riding, you can go to Killen Creek Trail, follow it the 3.1 miles to the Pacific Crest Trail, and hike about a half-mile north to a huge glacial basin and meadow highlighted by a waterfall and super view of Adams Glacier.

We also enjoy some of the most beautiful and rare wild flowers found anywhere. Ice Caves formed ages ago by molten lava, and the Sawtooth huckleberry fields. The White Salmon River is close by and a favorite for kayaking, river rafting, and excellent fishing. Or paddle your canoe and explore Trout Lake Creek, just outside of town. If you like fresh air, clean water and nature, Trout Lake is a slice of Heaven.

The Cascade Mountains form the backbone of Washington, separating the moist and mild coastal side from the drier interior. The range begins in Canada and extends to California. Although less familiar to many people due to its remote location, Mount Adams, at 12,276, is actually higher than the more famous mounts Baker, St Helens, and Hood. It lies about 30 miles east of Mount St Helens and 30 miles north of the Columbia River. The surrounding area forms the Mount Adams Wilderness boasting 47,270 acres and 64 miles of trail. It starts 9 miles north of Trout Lake on the west slope of Mount Adams in the Gifford Pinchot National Forest.

The Gifford Pinchot National Forest contains 1.37 million acres straddling the crest of the Cascades from the Columbia River north to Mount Rainier National Park. There are more than 30 campgrounds, two major mountains, more than 1,000 miles of trail, about 4,000 miles of roads. There are six wilderness areas in the Gifford Pinchot National Forest: Indian Heaven, Trapper Creek, Mount Adams, Goat Rocks, Tatoosh and Glacier View, plus a small portion of the William O. Douglas Wilderness Area.

If the town of Trout Lake, and the spacious surrounding area, sound like the type of place you would enjoy living, you can buy our piece of paradise. Our Ranch and our llamas are all for sale! Our 11 acre property has whitewater river frontage on the White Salmon River. There is a covered wrap around porch on two sides, also a covered deck on the river side. The house is only 30 ft from the river. The house is 2,380 sq ft plus an attached garage. Some of the features of this 3 bedroom 2 bath home are; wall to wall carpeting and ceramic tile floors, heat pump, central air conditioning, gourmet kitchen, breakfast nook, den/library/office, workshop, double pane and/or storm insulated windows, pantry, utility room, wrap around porches, and both mountain and river views. Add the barns, other outbuildings, dog run, gardens and the riverfront in your back yard, and what more could you want? Just click on this link to see photos and read more.

Greetings

Saturday, July 27, 2002

It is our pleasure to welcome you to The Farm, a bed and breakfast, a charming Bed and Breakfast home built in 1890, situated on 6 acres. Your hosts, Rosie and Dean Hostetter, invite you to enjoy a unique outdoor, farm and mountain setting.

Discover Trout Lake

Located near the town of Trout Lake, Washington, which offers a unique experience. The White Salmon River is nearby with recreational activities such as kayaking, canoeing or rafting. You'll also enjoy world class windsurfing in the Columbia River Gorge Scenic Area. From the Farm B&B, glimpse quiet and serene views of Mt. Adams and Mt. Hood with just a turn of the head. We also have beautiful grounds for a mountain wedding and or reception, family reunions, or whatever the occasion may be.

We want you to feel special...

Relax and unwind sitting on one of our decks under shady weeping willow and aspen trees in the summer. Or come sit by the cozy fire in the winter and warm up with your favorite hot beverage.

Dean's famous Farm breakfast

Freshly squeezed juices, hot home baked pastries, select teas and rich brewed coffee is served in the dining room on antique pewter, crystal and family silver. Entrees include Dean's homemade Huckleberry Pancakes, Dutch Babies, 400 mile Oatmeal, and French Toast just to name a few. Fresh sausage and bacon from Otto's (one of the oldest meat markets in Portland, Oregon). You won't go away hungry.

Trout Lake's Festival of the Arts takes place every year over the third weekend in July. Please call or email us for more information.

Thanks for visiting! You're our 26544th guest.

Trout Lake, Washington

Some places seem to shimmer with magic and Trout Lake, in the emerald green of Washington state, sings of beauty and fascinating adventures to explore and enjoy. Our area offers things such as...

-  Hiking trails of varied difficulty to allow all hikers, great and small, to enjoy the experience.
-  Big Lava Bed of major geologic interest, 12,500 acres of sculptural shapes, caves and crevasses.
-  Indian Heaven Wilderness is one of the largest wilderness areas in the U S and The Pacific Crest Trail passes through it.
-  Great fishing, salmon and trout abound.
-  White water rafting, some of the best rafting and kayaking adventures on the White Salmon River.
-  Huckleberries free for the picking in late summer. People from all over come for these.
-  Mushrooms are abundant in April, May and in the fall.
-  Board-sailing on the Columbia is some of the best in the world. Trout Lake is only 25 miles away.
-  Mount Adams has some of the best all year around cross-country skiing in the West.
-  Mountain climbing is also popular on Mount Adams.
-  Ice Caves formed by molten lava.
-  Camp grounds throughout the area.
-  Wildflowers, some of the most beautiful and rare found anywhere.

Trout Lake is a very small village. We have one little store that sells groceries, a gas station, a post office and the Grange is the backbone of our town. There is a school (K through 12), so wouldn't you know, we also have a pizza place. We have several dairies and the largest organic herb farm in the U.S. It is a very quaint place. My favorite spot is a great country cafe called Bonnie's Place. This is where I go to find out what is happening in our area. Bob Henderson, our local poet says it best:

Mt. Adams Country

Mt. Adams is a snow capped mountain,
 The second highest one in our state.
 And right at the mountain's foothills
 Is the little community called Trout Lake.
 It's the most beautiful place you ever saw.
 I'm sure you won't deny that I'm right.
 With Sleeping Beauty on the horizon,
 It's really a spectacular sight.
 Spelunkers can come and explore the caves,
 And there's trails that you can hike.
 There's winding roads all through the hills
 If you would rather ride your bike.
 There's huckleberries you can pick in summer.
 There's lakes and streams if you like to fish.
 Or you can just kick back and bask in the sun
 If that should be your wish.
 In the winter you can cross country ski,
 Or get out the old snowmobile,
 Or just sit by the fire and watch it snow,
 Whatever fills the bill.
 Its beauty will leave you awe-struck,
 So if you feel the need for a change of pace,
 Just drive on out and visit us,
 And have a bite to eat at Bonnie's Place.

I'd love to introduce you to my llamas, but be sure to allow yourself time to explore the area, it's just too wonderful to miss. For maps and more info on the area contact Mt. Adams District Ranger Station in Trout Lake 509-395-3400.
